Balance being Profit/(loss) carried to Balance Sheet	(4,639)	(4,164)

2. DIVIDEND

Your Directors do not recommend any dividend for the year 2010-11, in view of net loss during the year.

3. OPERATIONS

Mobile connectivity has brought about a major revolution. The farmers in the remotest area in our country are able to sell their produce at a much better price thus improving their standard of living. This has resulted in a great boost to the local demand of fabrics and the turnover of the Company has increased by 33% to Rs.27,613 lacs.

The Company has been able to reduce its net loss to Rs. 475 lacs, compared to loss of Rs. 1,868 lacs in the previous year, which is around 1/4th of the loss sustained in the previous year. Shortage of adequate working capital was a major impediment which affected the performance of the Company alongwith higher input cost of raw materials, specially cotton. Non availability of skilled manpower in the spinning unit at Baramati Maharashtra is a cause of worry. Training is now being imparted to female workers so as to overcome the problem of labour shortage.

4. COTTON

With more remunerative prices, farmers increased the area in cotton cultivation. In anticipation of a record production of cotton, the Government of India allowed the export of 55 lac bales. The unseasonal rain in December last year not only reduced the size of the crop but also the quality was inferior. This resulted in an increase in cotton prices from Rs.11,000/- per bale to as high as Rs. 32,000/- per bale. After the ban on the export of cotton, prices have fallen to Rs.22,000/- per bale, but this is twice in valuation when compared to the previous year.

5. EXPORT

Despite a substantial increase in the cost of production and facing stiff competition, the Company was able to almost double its export to Rs. 3,219 lacs FOB and have ventured into the upper segment by selling desized and mercerized Denim fabrics in different shades.

6. PROSPECT

Our Country is now considered as the most favourite destination by foreign investors. The rapid industrialization and massive expenditure in infrastructure development by our Government has created a situation where trained manpower has become very difficult to get. This situation will further worsen and Textile, being a labour intensive industry will need a major investment in automation to maintain the tempo of production. This is only possible if the Government of India would help the industry by making available adequate finance at reasonable rate of interest alongwith a loan having long term maturity to give an impetus to the industry to go in for automation in a very big way.

7. EXPANSION AND MODERNISATION

The Company was sanctioned the capital expenditure for completing its Garment project and other essential capital expenditure for its existing fabric process house under the Corporate Debt Restructuring (CDR) Scheme approved by CDR Cell vide Letter of Approval (LOA) No. BY.CDR/AG No. 1110/2008-2009 dated 26th February, 2009.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

1. INDUSTRY STRUCTURE

Indian Textile Industry is one of the leading textile industries in the world. A few years back it was predominantly in the un-organized sector. The opening-up of the economy since the year 1991 gave much-needed thrust to the Indian textile industry and the scenario of the industry has changed. The current domestic market of textile in India is around US$ 34.6 billion.

The Indian Textile Industry largely depends upon the exports as well as the domestic demand which is also a very huge market. It also plays a major role in the economy of the country. India earns about 27% of its total foreign exchange from textile exports and contributes to around 14% in the total industrial production and around 3% to the GDP of the country. Textile industry is also the largest in the country with respect to the employment generation, which currently provides employment to more than 35 million people. It is estimated that the textile industry will generate around 12 million new jobs in the coming years. The Indian textile industry can be divided in the following segments.

- Cotton Textiles
- Manmade Textiles
- Woolen Textiles
- Silk Textiles
- Readymade Garments
- Khadi & Handicraft Textiles
- Jute and Coir

Cotton is one of the principal crops of the country and it plays a vital role in the Indian economy. It engages around 6 million farmers and another about 40-50 million people depend on activities related to cotton cultivation, cotton trade and its processing for their livelihood. It is the principal raw material for Indian textile industry comprising of 1608 spinning mills and 200 composite mills, with an installed capacity of 35.61 million spindles, 448,000 Open End Rotors and 69,000 looms in the organized sector plus another 1,219 small scale spinning units with 4 million spindles and about 157,226 rotors in the decentralized small scale sector. India ranks first in cotton-cultivation area and second in cotton production in the world. There is substantial increase in cotton production with the improvement in yield due to modern farming practices and B.T. cotton and India has emerged as the second highest cotton producer in the world next to China.

Prospects of Indian Denim Industry

The denim fabric is considered to be durable and strong compared to the other fabric sorts. It is very suitable to Indian climate and hence it is gaining popularity in India and denim craze is eminent. The Indian denim market is growing at 10-15% per annum and it is likely to grow further in coming years. The present market potential is very good and almost all the brands of denim manufacturers have witnessed multiple fold increase in their demand. Most of the international brands of denim garments have presence in India like Levi's, Lee, and Wrangler etc. The domestic brands of denim garments also have come out with exclusive jeans range.

Some of the points that indicate the domestic market for denim jeans to remain buoyant in the near future are as follows.

- The popularity of denim products has increased tremendously especially in the young boys and girls also.
- The denim fabric and garment producers have been able to make very attractive designs of denim fabric & garments.
- The denim garments are very versatile, comfortable and easy to maintain.
- The rural market in India for denim garments is also growing very rapidly.
- The brand network is growing very rapidly in India, which allows customers to easily access brands and products of their choice.
- Many multinational brands are now coming to India to source denim garments for their Indian retail business and also for their global requirements.
- The per capita consumption of denim fabric in India is less than 0.30 m per annum. In the US, the per capita consumptions of denim is around eight pairs of jeans for males and seven pairs of jeans for females.

The strength and weaknesses of Indian textile industry are as under.

Strengths

- Vast textile production capacity
- Availability of raw material
- Entrepreneurial skills
- Efficient multi-fiber raw material manufacturing capacity
- Large domestic market
- Enormous export potential
- Very low import content
- Flexible textile manufacturing systems

Weaknesses

- Increased global competition in the post 2005 trade regime under WTO
- Imports of cheap textiles from neighboring countries
- Use of outdated manufacturing technology
- Poor supply chain management
- Huge unorganized and decentralized sector
- High production cost with respect to other Asian competitors

Currently, the outlook for Indian textile industry is very positive. The investments in textile industry are encouraging and there is a revival in demand for Indian textiles.

The recession in the global market and the currency volatility in the last few years are showing the signs of improvements now. The revival in demand is clearly visible from the increase in production observed during the period April 2009 and January 2010. The credit profiles of the textile companies are expected to improve with revival in the domestic demand and signs of improvement in the global markets. However, appreciation of rupee and the significant rise in cotton prices recently are the causes of concerns which may affect the profitability.
